

Natural Heritage Information Centre

Natural Areas Report: TARBERT DRIFT

Area Id: 4289

Area Type: ES

Alias(es):

Size (ha):

Significance Level:

Site District:

Counties:
DUFFERIN

Topographic Maps:
40P/16

UTM Centroid: 17 554100 4867200

Decimal Latitude/Longitude: 43.9579362566627 -80.3255582843939

Description: The Tarbert Drift is an area of isolated kames or minor recessional moraine deposits indicating stagnant conditions during retreat of the Georgian Bay ice lobe during the Port Bruce Stadial. The Grand River flows in a valley that was once a meltwater channel.

Vegetation:

Landform: The Tarbert Drift is an area of isolated kames or minor recessional moraine deposits indicating stagnant conditions during retreat of the Georgian Bay ice lobe during the Port Bruce Stadial. The Grand River flows in a valley that was once a meltwater channel.

Representation:

Management Agency:

Minimum Elevation:

Maximum Elevation:

References

Id Citation

[MEDIA CENTRE | PUBLICATIONS | MNR OFFICES | TELEPHONE DIRECTORY]

Central Site | Feedback | Search | Site Map | Français

[Program | Topic | Location | Service]

Modified 06-05-2005